NATIONAL MUSEUM OF MATHEMATICS PRESENTS “MIND BENDING PARADOXES”

“CHANGING YOUR MIND” AT MOMATH

New York, 08.01.2018, 04:02 Time

USPA NEWS - January 2018 Math Encounters’ presentation at the MOMATH in New York City by Dr. Dave Kung from St. Mary’s College of Maryland reflected on “Mind Bending Paradoxes & the Possibility of Changing Your mind.”

The engaging and motivational mathematical talk on the topics of non-apparent results and appreciation of wrong solutions kept the audience active until the last moment of the presentation and after it with interaction with the presenter. Dr. Kung evoked underlying mathematical and logic concepts related to physics experiments and processes, life biological processes, nature, music. The audience worked on finding answers to the following non-obvious for many questions:

Which way does air flow?
